PERRIN'S

GLOVES

A Few Facts About Kid Gloves.

THERE is no article in the Dry Goods trade more difficult to handle satisfactorily than Kid Gloves. Let the following facts be borne in mind:

Kid Skins and Lamb Skins

are not manufactured to order in a loom where the material, the weave, the weight, and the strength, can be controlled; they grow on animals, subject to change of weather, of food, and of other conditions such as cause the variety we see in nature.

The manufacturer has to depend on the honesty, ability, and care of his work-people in the selection and manipulation of the skins, and they, like all human beings, often err.

A nice kid glove is the most important part of a ladies' dress.
We have made our KID GLOVE department very large and complete. We have stuck to well known and reliable makers and kept the same brand for years. We have Blacks, Tans, Browns and Greys in stock, both in Bretagne, Lacing and Stud fastenings. Every pair fully warranted when correct size is purchased.

SUPERINTENDENT RESPONSIBLE

District Attorney Brings Suit to Recover Money Lost From the Mint.

New Orleans, Aug. 8.—The U. S. district attorney brought suit to-day in the United States district court against A. W. Smith, late superintendent of the mint, as a result of the mysterious fire in the vault in the mint on June 1st, 1893, in which, it was claimed, $25,000 was destroyed. One of the employes was charged with misappropriating the money, but a criminal suit against him failing, a civil suit has been introduced by the United States against the superintendent to recover the money.

ONCE WEALTHY, NOW BROKE.

Warner, the Patent Medicine Magnate, Loses His Last Franc Gaming.

He Attempts to Retrieve Himself at Monte Carlo But Makes Matters Worse.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 9.—H. H. Warner, of Rochester, who made several millions out of a patent medicine, has returned home from Europe penniless. He left the last of his fortune in Monte Carlo. Mr. Warner went to Europe about two months ago. He was supposed at that time to be almost bankrupt. He had made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors and his beautiful house and observatory had been sold to help to meet his indebtedness. He began to lose money with the earliest indications of the business depression. His fortune soon sliding away form him, his creditors got out judgments and executions, and being unable to realize on some of his investments he was powerless to avert the catastrophe. When this was nearly over he took a European trip at the advice of his friends. It was also his intention to try and float abroad the stock of a company organized for the manufacture of beet sugar. In the scheme he associated with him William Cannard, who in the early days of his prosperity had drawn a salary of $5000 a year as one of the advertising writers. By arrangement Mr. Warner met Mr. Cannard and Mrs. Cannard in Paris. They planned a pleasure trip to Monte Carlo. Mr. Warner could not resist the temptations there and soon lost the ready money he had with him. He secured a loan from Mr. Cannard and lost that palying a system. This left the party somewhat impaired for funds, but Mrs. Cannard stepped into the breach. She is a beautiful young woman who was in Mr. Warner's employ before her marriage, and she had a lot of fine diamonds, some of which were the gifts of Mr. Warner since her marriage, for he was generous to his employes. She went to one of the numerous pawnshops, pawned the diamonds for ten thousand francs, which she turned over to Mr. Warner to continue his "system." Luck came his way, and when he left he had sixty thousand francs, although at one time his capital had been reduced to sixteen hundred francs. He gave an elaborate dinner that night to a few friends and Mr. and Mrs. Cannard entreated him to go with them to Paris before he lost the money. He refused, saying that his success had proved his system, and next day found him in his seat. He played three days and lost every franc. He raised enough money to get to Paris, and there met an old friend, a Rochester business man, who gave him enough money to pay his passage home. He left Mr. and Mrs. Cannard in Paris. Mr. Warner has told the story of his play to his friends. He is confident that there are good things in store for him in the future and that he will be rich again.

WOMEN'S POLITICS.

Miss Bates Buys Off Her Opponent by Promising to Marry Him.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 9.—A paper published at Foreman, N. D., brings out a romantic incident in connection with the nomination by the Republican state convention of Miss Emma F. Bates, of Valley City, to be superintendent of schools. Miss Bates had charge of her own canvass and found formidable opponents in John H. Devine and Professor J. H. Holland. She was able to sidetrack the latter by making herself solid with the Young Men's Republican league. She then entered on negotiations with Mr. Devine, first demanding unconditional surrender, which he refused. After further negotiations, it is said, he agreed to fall off the track provided she would, if elected state superintendent, make him her deputy and marry him into the bargain. After some deliberation she agreed to do this, provided he would stump the state for her. This was also agreed to. As he is a powerful speaker, Miss Bates is conceded to have made the shrewdest deal yet known.

CINCINNATI'S UNEMPLOYED.

They Meet at the City Hall and Demand Work.

Cincinnati, Aug. 9.—One thousand unemployed men appeared at the city hall yesterday demanding work. They were impatient and persistent in their demands, but beyond a few threats were orderly. The city authorities are greatly troubled at the outlook, and it is likely that more bonds will be issued to continue public works. Many mills and factories are idle.

PRAYING FOR RAIN.

Hardly a Drop of Rain Falls in Nearly Two Months.

Northfield, Minn., Aug. 9.—The religious bodies of this city and country, comprising Catholics, Methodists, Baptists and Congregationalists, have been in session of prayer since June 15 for rain, without success. Unless it comes by next Sunday they will abandon their efforts. In a section one hundred miles square not a drop of rain has fallen since June 15, and then only one inch.

THOROUGHLY CORRUPT.

Every Member of New Orleans City Government to be Tried.

New Orleans, Aug. 9. Francis Teffey, the wealthy and influential member of the city council, has resigned to escape impeachment proceedings. It is said, however, that he will be prosecuted criminally with his associates. Already five of the city fathers have been indicted, and the work of the grand jury is not yet ended. The councilmen have been fighting for a delay, but yesterday Judge Moise ordered them to go to trial at once. New Orleans is likely to have a new government within thirty days, as it is thought that almost every member of the present government will either resign or be convicted.

AMERICAN POACHERS.

Illegal Whaling and Trading in Canadian Waters.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—For three years the Dominion government has been investigating the invasion of Hudson Bay by United States whaling vessels and the illicit trading of the crews of these vessels among the Indians. Inquiries were set afloat by the customs department, but in that remote territory it was found so difficult to obtain positive evidence of the contravention of the Canadian customs and fisheries laws that no formal complaint could be laid before the government at Washington, and so all that was done was to have formal notice sent out to the effect that fishing and trading in these waters by foreign vessels would not be tolerated by the Canadian authorities. A letter has just been received, dated June 10, from Fort Hope, on the Mackenzie river, which says: "We received letters lately from Peel's river post, in which we are told that about 150 miles from that post down the Mackenzie seven ships had wintered there, hunting whales and trading furs, and that during last fall they killed 110 whales. The nationality of the ships is not given, but they are supposed to be American vessels." These vessels have evidently made their catches in the estuaries of the Mackenzie river, which are wholly in Canadian territory. The Dominion government has taken measures to ascertain the extent to which these depredations have been carried on. In June last Inspector Constantine, of the Northwest Mounted Police was dispatched northward via Alaska. His destination was understood to be the Yukon and Mackenzie river districts. His mission was to inquire into and report upon the violation of the territorial laws. The government has decided to send a cruiser to Hudson Bay to protect the whale fisheries.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—The general opinion in militia circles here is that Major-General Herbert will return to England to take command of a battalion of the Grenadier Guards, his regiment. If he does not go he will have to sacrifice the position which has just become vacant. It is thought he will go and thus get out of the unpleasant trouble which has taken place between himself and Colonel Powell.

MADE SHORT WORK OF IT.

Mexican Soldiers Rid the Country of a Notorious Outlaw.

Reno, Mexico, Aug. 9.—Marcos de Luna, the most notorious outlaw in northern Mexico, was killed forty miles south of here yesterday by a detachment of Mexican soldiers who had been sent in pursuit of him. He was with a woman when the soldiers approached, and both were fired upon, the woman also being killed. De Luna was wanted for many murders and other crimes in Mexico and Texas. He had served a long term of imprisonment in the Texas prison, but after his release he continued to terrorize the lower border country. He had several desperate followers, who will also probably be captured and shot.

MET SIMILAR FATES.

Father and Son Murdered, the Former by His Father-in-Law.

Lebanon, Ind., Aug. 9.—Christian Wesner, jr., a bright young attorney, while intoxicated drove his mother, sister and wife from home on Tuesday night. Last night he called at the home of James Livingston, his father-in-law, for his wife. He was still intoxicated, and Livingston ordered him away. Wesner refused to go, and Livingston seized a shot gun and fired both barrels into him. He fell to the floor and cried, "Jim, you have killed me!" Livingston replied, "I don't give a damn if I have." Wesner is dead. Livingston, who is in jail, refuses to talk. Wesner's father, Judge Wesner, was murdered a year ago in the court house at Danville by J. C. Brown. His dying words were, "God bless my poor boy!" Wesner's wife is in a serious condition from the shock.

It was contracted for by his father, the late sultan. This warship will be the first foreign built craft added to the Morocco navy in more than a hundred years.

JAPAN'S VERSION DENIED.

Capt. Van Hannaker's Affidavit Respecting the Sinking of the Kow Shung.

The Sinking Was Not Connected With Any Previous Naval Encounter.

London, Aug. 9.—The Times correspondent in Tientsin says that a court of enquiry into the Kow Shung affair was held yesterday. Captain von Hannaker's affidavit denying the official Japanese version of the sinking of the transport was read. He denied the Japanese statement that the cruiser Nanaiwa attacked the Kow Shung only after she encountered the Chinese warship Chen Yuen. The Kow Shung affair, he asserted, was in no way connected with another naval encounter between the Chinese and Japanese.

AMERICAN NEWS.

Minister Willis' Course Approved—Hawaiian Republic Recognized.

Washington, Aug. 9.—It is officially confirmed that the course of Minister Willis in officially recognizing so far as he had a right to do the Hawaiian republic has been approved. A reply has been sent to Willis, in which the republic is formally recognized by the United States government.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—It is stated this morning that the basis for an agreement on the tariff was reached yesterday by the conferees and was submitted by President Cleveland last evening, and he was much displeased to find that coal was not on the free list. It is further stated that he urged the house conferees to hold out a little longer in the hope of securing coal on the free list as well as iron. The senate conferees seemed firm in their intention and controversy to-day.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—In the house to-day Boutelle denounced the administration for recognising the Hawaiian republic and withholding the fact from congress and proceeded to arraign the Hawaiian policy of the government. He was cut off by the demand for the regular order.

New York, Aug. 9.—Receiver Reinhart of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, has taken Little's report and, it is alleged, is preparing his answer. It is stated that it will be ready this afternoon.

Omaha, Aug. 9.—The authorities have decided to send two hundred deputies to the scene of the disorders at the packing houses where the men are on strike.

Gifford, Ill., Aug. 9.—This town was almost wholly burned to-day. Loss very heavy.

Milwaukee, Aug. 9.—People residing on the south side of the city were much exercised over the enforcement of the sanitary laws. Last night while the health officers were removing a child stricken with smallpox from a tenement they were attacked by a mob of two thousand people. The health wagon was stoned, and the police with difficulty succeeded in getting the vehicle to the pest house. A mass meeting in which five thousand people participated was subsequently held and the treatment denounced.

Vallejo, Cal., Aug. 9.—The ninety ton calissony of the Mare Island dock capsized and sank at the mouth of the dock Tuesday night, preventing the docking of vessels. The accident was due entirely to carelessness in leaving the dock filled with water, and making no allowance for the rise and fall of the tide.

DEFYING THE PEOPLE.

Popular Uprising Possible in Uruguay—A Cabinet Crisis.

New York, Aug. 9.—A special cable from Montevideo says: The president and ex-president are defying the people. A cabinet crisis is imminent and a popular uprising is possible.

AN AGED PRIEST.

He Served at the Altar During Ninety-Nine Years.

There died in Trikhala, in Thessaly, recently a Greek priest, aged 120, acted he had never left the village in which he was born. He ascribed his long life and vigor to the simple way in which he lived. Until a few years ago he slept summer and winter in the open air, drank no wine or alcoholic liquors, except at communion, and smoked no tobacco. For a short time he used snuff, but gave it up, as it did not agree with him. Meat he seldom ate in the course of the year. His nourishment consisted chiefly of fruit, nuts, vegetables and bread.

He always rose from his simple bed—which was invariably turned towards the east—before the sun was up, and only priestly duties could induce him to break his habit of retiring at 9 o'clock. His face at the time of his death was comparatively free from wrinkles, he heard without any difficulty and read without glasses. The only evidence of advanced age was loss of memory of recent events. He was able to remember everything that had happened in his early days, but his recollection of new things often became so poor that he often forgot whether or not he had eaten. The result was, strange as it may seem—that he often, in the belief that he was following out his system of regularity as to meals, ate two meals close together or fasted entirely. On this account his stomach became disordered and indirectly brought about his death.

Throughout his life, it is said, he was never sick and never used medicine. He died easily, his last words being: "Now, let thy servant depart in peace, O Lord!"

He had acted as priest in Takahala for ninety-nine years.—Inter Ocean.

NEWS BY CABLE.

Bismarck Advises That Anarchists Like Hogs be Confined Closely.

London, Aug. 8.—A dispatch from Buenos Ayres says that Judge Salts, of the federal court, has granted the extradition of Jabes Spencer Balfour, the central figure in the Liberator Building Society frauds.

It is reported that the British government has instructed the commander of the British cruiser Mohawk to act in accord with the United States authorities at Bluefields, and to refrain from interference except to protect British subjects and maintain treaty rights.

The steamer Poto Alegre, from Santos, July 17, has arrived at Hamburg with her stern damaged. The damage was presumably caused by a collision with the steamer Lismoe Castle. No details have been received.

Francis E. Underwood, United States consul at Liege, Belgium, who has been ailing for some time, died last evening from blood-poisoning.

The Earl of Wemyss has written a letter urging the formation of a standing imperial defence committee, consisting of the leading British ministers and all of the British colonial agents in London. He bases his suggestions upon the "eloquent and forcible" speech recently delivered in London by Col. Denison of Toronto. He deprecates waiting for an imperial customs union, which, he says, will not be attained in years, if ever.

Berlin, Aug. 8.—In a conversation with a visitor in Varsin yesterday Prince Bismarck said he expected little good from the international action against anarchists. If each state, he said, would manage within its own frontiers to prevent the formation of plots, quietness and order would soon return. Anarchists everywhere, he added, ought to be treated as they are in Varsin. "I mean pigs," said Bismarck, smiling, "we confine them closely."

Rome, Aug. 8.—Signor Cuciniello, director of the Bank of Naples, died in prison at Avers to-day. He was implicated in the recent bank scandals.

Several Italian newspapers have been sequestrated under the anti-anarchist law for publishing an anonymous letter addressed to the syndic of the commune, in which Santo Caesario lived, glorifying Caesario and threatening vengeance in case of his execution.

BRITAIN'S PROCLAMATION.

She is Neutral in the War Between China and Japan.

London, Aug. 8.—A copy of the Japanese edict issued on the declaration of war has been received by the Central News correspondents in Shanghai. It says the local authorities will be held responsible for the lives and property of the Chinese subjects remaining in the several districts.

The Russian officials in Shanghai say Russian trade suffers too severely from war for her to interfere. Russia's movements are watched very closely by Japan; because of the report of a Russian-Chinese entente.

The weather on the China sea is so rough that all the latter's vessels have been driven to shelter. The Japanese cruisers are supposed to be concentrated at Chemulpo.

An extraordinary Gazette has been issued. It contains a proclamation by the Queen declaring Great Britain's neutrality in the war between China and Japan. There is also published in the Gazette a letter from the Earl of Kimberley to the lords of the admiralty setting forth the rules to be observed at the various British ports and harbors. A belligerent man-of-war must leave British waters within twenty-four hours after its arrival, unless weather or the necessity of taking on coal or provisions prevents. In the event of a Chinese and Japanese vessel being in a British port together, an interval of twenty-four hours must elapse between the departure of the two vessels.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Information received at the Japanese legation is that Sinichiro Kurino, the new minister to this country, will leave Japan for his post of duty to-day. He is expected here the latter part of the month.

The legation has not yet had any communication with Valentine Nowacki, the leader of the foreign forces of the Pennsylvania coke strikers, who proposed to offer to raise five thousand soldiers for use in the war against China. It is pretty safe to say that while Nowaski's offer will be duly appreciated it would be promptly declined. The Japanese army has been brought to a very high standard of efficiency, modelled very much after the tactics in vogue in Germany, and if the former government sought the assistance of foreign troops, which is not regarded as probable, it is likely that efforts would be made to obtain them from Germany.

Gibraltar, Aug. 7.—The Japanese warship Satisuata, from Newcastle, arrived here to-day en route for Japan. She will probably escort three fast vessels, fitted out as cruisers, which were recently purchased in England for the Japanese government.

London, Aug. 8.—The Russian newspapers are abandoning the idea of an amicable understanding between England and Russia with respect to Corea, and are publishing anti-English articles. Especially suspicious of England is the Novoe Vremya, which declares that England is secretly supporting China, and that Japan will soon find this out. The London Daily News remarks that this language is noteworthy, inasmuch as the statements made would not be permitted to pass the censorship if the Russian government objected to them.

GOLD BRICK SWINDLERS.

Western Detectives Following a Trio Through the East.

New York, Aug. 8.—Detective John T. Norris, of Springfield, Ohio, and a squad of New York and Brooklyn detectives, spent yesterday afternoon at Brighton Beach race track trying to find three swindlers who had been working the gold brick game in the west. The trio is said to have made more than $550,000 in the west during the last month. Detective Norris arrived last Friday in New York city, where he heard the brick swindlers were stopping. He traced them to a quiet hotel, where he learned that they had left for Jersey City. The hotel clerk said the swindlers attended the races at Brighton Beach every afternoon. The detectives went to Brooklyn and had Justice Walsh issue a warrant for the arrest of the trio. He also went to West Brighton and Graves end police court and had Justices Voorhees and Finnerty issue similar papers. Armed with these warrants Detective Norris and ten Brooklyn and New York detectives came to the track yesterday afternoon an hour before the gates opened. Norris, who is well acquainted with the swindlers, sat in the secretary's office and closely scrutinized everybody who entered. The other detectives were stationed at the other entrances and the betting ring. Norris and his squad hunted everywhere, but could get no clue, except from a field glass boy, who said that three men answering the description of the swindlers were there yesterday, paid him for storing their glasses, and left, saying they were going to Saratoga. Detective Norris refused to give the names of the swindlers. He says these gold brick workers are the finest in the business. They dress nicely and are very flowery talkers. One of them is a graduate of a leading college down east. They have swindled western business men out of more than $500,000 to the knowledge of the police and are wanted in every state on the other side of the Mississippi. In the city to which Detective Norris belongs they made a great haul. He traced them on east, but they do not stop more than a night in one hotel and it is very hard to locate them.

THE AMERICAN PILGRIMS.

Their Arrival in Rome—A Rich and Costly Banner.

Rome, Aug. 8.—The American pilgrims to Rome and Lourdes, who left Brooklyn three weeks ago, reached the Eternal City last night, and were welcomed by a committee of Catholic nobles and representatives of the municipal government, and which extended to the visitors the hospitality and freedom of the city. Late this afternoon the pilgrims will be escorted to the Vatican, where they will be given audience by the holy father, and who, after bestowing a collective blessing upon the delegation, will formally bless the votive banner that is to be deposited next week in the Basilica at Lourdes as a token of remembrance of the Catholics of the United States. The banner will be unfurled and placed before his holiness by Father Porcile, spiritual director of the pilgrimage. After to-day's sightseeing the pilgrims will leave for Genoa.

The American banner, which will be blessed by the Pope, is a costly piece of work. It is 72 inches long and 40 inches wide. It is a happy and artistic combination of the religious and patriotic and a superb piece of ornate needlework. Its reverse is an American shield of red, white and blue. The fringe, tassels and cord are of gold, red, green and white. These strips of white are marked with two coats-of-arms, set in circular frames, the arms of the state of New York and the city of Brooklyn, the latter to represent the city from which the pilgrimage had its inception. In the centre, on blue ground, are two medallions—one containing the coat-of-arms of the present bishop of Brooklyn, and the other depicting the Lady of the Immaculate Conception. She is garbed in a robe of pure white, with a pale blue sash drapery, and stands in a circle of golden rays. The figure is crowned, and the face is executed in the famous "darning stitch," which three feet away bears an almost exact resemblance to painting.

QUEBEC INTOLLERANCE.

A Mob of Rowdies Wreck Protestant Mission Buildings.

Quebec, Aug. 8.—This city last night was the scene of a disgraceful and riotous demonstration. The French Baptist mission has recently been established in this city with its headquarters in a building on Bridge street. A mob gathered around the building and an attack was begun on it with stones. The attack was fierce and the windows and doors soon yielded to the shower of stones. The poor preachers, cooped up in the building without any means whatever of defence, could not venture out and were held prisoners for some time until a force of police came along and cleared the mob, which numbered 5000, composed mostly of French Roman Catholics. The mob went to the building occupied by the French Anglican mission. This place, too, was wrecked. By the time the police got this far, the rioters had moved on and were at the Salvation Army barracks. Here another fusilade of stones took place, and the property of the army sustained considerable damage. The police again arrived too late to make any arrests, and hearing that the rioters had once more made for the Baptist mission they started in cabs for that place, where they arrived just in time to prevent a second riot. The streets were cleared and the missionaries were escorted to their homes by the police to prevent further violence being offered them. There is every reason to fear a recurrence of the trouble, and the fact that similar disturbance led to rather similar results a few years ago, gives rise to the gravest apprehension. The city has been quiet to-day, but an outbreak is feared should the Salvation Army attempt to parade the streets.

BEWARE OF MASHONALAND.

A Recently Returned Victim Warns People to Stay Away.

Whatcom, Aug. 7.—Edmund S. Hincks, formerly clerk of the county commissioners, returned to-day from South Africa, having been lured there last year by the gold craze. He left Durham, Natal, May 23, by a German steamer, reached London via the Suez canal seven weeks later, crossed the Atlantic to Boston, and thence came via the Canadian Pacific railway to this city. Unable to get any white to accompany him, he went into the interior of Mashonaland and Monicaland with five natives, and when close to Tete, on the Zambesi river, he was prostrated by coast fever from the last of December to the last of March, and with great difficulty reached a settlement, where he was cared for.

He says there are some low grade gold reefs in Mashonaland, but no alluvial deposits in paying quantities, and nothing whatever to justify prospectors, engineers or skilled white labor of any kind going there. The South African company has issued a proclamation warning people not to go into Mashonaland without large capital. The situation is about as bad in the Transvaal. Thousands of miners, engineers and mechanics are out of work, and while there are a number of great mines, eight thousand claims, upon which a great sum of money has been spent in the aggregate, have played out and have been abandoned. Nearly all the mining is done by Kaffirs, and it is impossible for white men to get employment of any kind. Many miners are now leaving there and going to Western Australia.

American News.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 7.—An afternoon paper says that three fishermen from this side were fired on by the Canadian cruiser Dolphin while cruising last summer inside of Rose's Reef, in Canadian waters. It appears that the fishermen sighted the cruiser bearing down on them and tried to escape to the shore, but after several shots from a Winchester had been fired, they stopped rowing. The cruiser came up to them and the captain searched their boats, but, finding that they had no nets and were only using poles and lines, he permitted them to continue their fishing. The men said some of the bullets came dangerously close.

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 8.—Dr. Reed, one of the men brought here from Denver, charged with being implicated in the Tarsney outrage, had a document in his possession in which he pledged himself, with others, to punish anarchists and their sympathizers no matter how exalted their positions, to keep all secrets of the band of which he (Reed) is one, and help to punish those who violate the secrets of the band.

In cases where dandruff, scalp diseases, falling and greyness of the hair appear, do not neglect them, but apply a proper remedy and tonic like Hall's Hair Renewer.

The reputation of the maker ought to go far to recommend a trial of a new article. Our thirty years of public record as

The department of inland revenue is engaged, under authority of two acts passed by parliament last session, organizing an electrical inspection branch. It appears from an official statement issued by the Dominion government that it has been decided to abandon Hawaii as a port for the landing of the Canadian-Australian Pacific cable. Tenders are invited for seven different routes, and upon three different plans. Plan No. 1 invites tenders for the construction of a cable to be the property of the government, but to be guaranteed by the construction company. Plan No. 2 is for a cable to be run by a company taking the work upon the basis of a subsidy, the tenders to stipulate the amount of subsidy required and the number of years for which it will be operated. The third plan calls for the construction and operation of a cable for a stipulated guarantee of earnings to be made by the company tendering. The parties tendering are asked in each case to tender for seven different routes, under the three separate plans mentioned, the government to regulate the amount of tolls to be charged by an order-in-council.

The London World, formerly edited by the late Edmund Yates, to-day says that Major-General Herbert may possibly be ordered to vacate the command of the Canadian militia and return to his regimental duties with the Grenadier Guards. This is consequent on Colonel Rikardo's promotion. It is rumored, however, that the war office is being urged by British military circles to allow Major-General Herbert to continue in Canada owing to the important reforms which he has started. If Major-General Herbert does not return he will forfeit his right to the command of the battalion. The opportunity thus presented by the promotion of Colonel Rikardo would afford Major-General Herbert a convenient opportunity to escape the unpleasant consequences of the Powell incident, and it is said here that for this reason he may return to his old regiment. I cannot ascertain that any pressure has been brought to bear upon the war office from Canada to have the major-general of the Canadian militia recalled, but in Canadian circles here it is considered that the opponents of General Herbert have a fine opportunity to make an effective effort to get rid of an admittedly unpopular officer.

A MAN'S HAT.

The Evolution and the Etiquette of the Head Covering.

Of a famous royal wooer it was once related that his bride being brought from her home over-seas to his palace, having been wedded by proxy, as the old custom was, he met her on the landing with gifts galore, chief and foremost amongst which were three beautiful bonnets.

The lady had been pleasantly impressed by what she had heard, but what she now saw accomplished her conquest, and from that day on she was devoted to her lord. The bonnets were irresistible. A becoming bonnet is a capsheaf of beauty. The Frenchwoman understands this, and with deft touches she pulls out her bows and smooths her ribbons and keeps her bonnets always in the freshest and daintiest order.

But a man's hat! Once it was a chapeau, plumed with lace, with gold cords and silken tassels. In the portrait of Vandyck and Franz Hals the sweeping broad-brimmed hats make a fine show.

The nineteenth century man of business is not natted for display, but for action. The hat is a useful part of his costume, and, so that it be brushed and in shape, the main interest it has for the wearer is satisfied. For society it has another interest, and this is in the manner of handling his hat on occasions of ceremony or in ordinary intercourse with others. No man who has the least claim to be a gentleman keeps his hat on in the presence of women. Even if the women are people whom he meets in business relations, and in those only, he defers to the sex by removing his hat in the office or counting room as he would in the drawing room. A man takes off his hat in the elevator which carries him when it also carries ladies. He does not do so in the public conveyance which all share in common, because in a street car or a boat he is, in a way, out of doors, and requires a covering for his head.

A gentleman lifts his hat when recognizing a friend, or when passing ladies who are in company with his friend, though he does not possess their acquaintance. A boy should be trained to take off his hat to his mother, his sister, or to the little girls he knows. To lift the hat with a grace of good breeding is a much-to-be-desired accomplishment.

Southern men remove their hat with fine gallantry and stand bare headed when talking with ladies on the public promenade. The action is so dignified and so charming that one sometimes wishes it were generally imitated by men of equal politeness in other portions of our country.—Harper's Bazaar.

WILL WRITE ON GLASS.

Latest Use Discovered for the Metal Aluminium.

The latest application of aluminium is in the form of pencils for writing on glass. For the moment the discovery of this property of aluminium is that of curious interest simply, but one cannot foresee the uses to which it may possibly be applied. The following information on the subject is from an article by Charles Margot in La Nature, Paris, June 30:

"Aluminium possesses the remarkable property, when used in the form of pencils, of leaving on glass, or other substance with a silicious basis, metallic tracings which cannot be effaced by rubbing, or even by the ordinary process of washing. The property is manifested very sensibly when the rubbed surface of the glass is moistened, or simply covered with a light film of vapor, or even breathed upon.

"Moisture is not indispensable to secure the adhesion of the pencil to the glass, but it certainly facilitates it, and obviates the necessity of resorting to any great pressure or friction. Various designs, such as birds, flowers, inscriptions, may be drawn to produce very effective pictures whether on white or colored glass. The design thus made has a metallic lustre in reflected light, and is opaque in transmitted light. An indispensable condition of the success of the experiment is that the glass be perfectly clean; the faintest trace of grease prevents the adhesion of the metal to the glass. The particular pressure of the hand at which the pencil 'bites' best is learned by experience. The pencil is given a rather rapid to and fro movement, with some degree of pressure, and by using a ruler a metallic line of an appreciable thickness is produced. By the repetition of these lines at regular intervals, and crossing them in various ways, one may produce very pretty checkered or tessellated designs.

"The moisture, indispensable to the work thus done by hand, is prejudicial to the lustre of the metallic deposit, a fact specially noticeable on the reverse side in working on transparent glass. By the use of a small aluminium disk, readily adjustible, and admitting of rapid rotation, the necessity of moisture is obviated and the metallic lustre is brilliant. Under these conditions the metal attaches itself to the glass with perfect regularity as fast as the disk revolves.

"This method, the only one which admits of industrial application to glass decoration, gives results unapproachable by hand work. Metallic effects are produced which are of great advantage in certain classes of hand work; moreover, one is able, by polishing the drawing, to give it the appearance of a very beautiful metallic incrustation. Polishing is effected in various ways; the most simple and readily available consists in covering the decorated plate with a thin film of oil, and in passing a sharp steel tool obliquely over the drawing with a firm hand. This will smooth down all irregularities, and will leave a sufficient thickness of the metal to produce a very brilliant appearance, while the tracing, viewed by transmitted light, is perfectly opaque. This polishing may enable one to form an idea of the extraordinary tenacity with which the metal attaches itself to the glass. The union is as complete as that of two metals soldered together.

"One would suppose that if the plates thus decorated were subjected to the action of sulfuric acid or caustic potash, all traces of the design would disappear. This is not the case. The metal disappears rapidly, but an opaque tracing remained in most of the experiments in this direction.

"Experiments have been made to discover whether any other of the metals possess this property of writing on glass, but the results for the most part have been negative. Magnesium possesses the property in a marked degree, but, unfortunately, it is so readily oxidized as to have no permanence. Zinc and cadmium also possess this property. Zinc employed as a revolving disk requires greater rapidity and greater pressure than aluminium, and gives less brilliant results. Cadmium acts very readily, requiring little pressure, but the results are in no way comparable to those produced by aluminium. With both zinc and cadmium water is an obstacle to the adhesion of the metal to the glass. They require a perfectly dry surface.

"The application to the industrial arts of writing on glass by means of aluminium opens up a very extensive field for exploitation by the amateur. Aluminium does not tarnish like silver by exposure to the air; these drawings have consequently a permanency which gives them a special value."

AN AWKWARD GIFT.

Sir Walter Scott's Perplexity Over the Two Emus.

Sir Walter Scott, who was the recipient of many gifts, had his fair share of vexatious experiences, and laughs at them somewhat ruefully now and then in the pages of his journal. Eight large and very badly painted landscapes, "in gilded frames," were given him by one "most amiable and accomplished old lady." She had ordered them from an impoverished amateur whom she desired to befriend, and then palmed them off on Sir Walter, who was too gentle and generous to protest.

A more "whimsical subject of affliction" was the presentation of two emus by a Mr. Harmer, a settler in Botany Bay, to whom Scott had given some useful letters of introduction. "I wish his gratitude had either taken a different turn, or remained as quiescent as that of others whom I have obliged more materially," writes Sir Walter in his journal. "I at first accepted the creatures conceiving them, in my ignorance, to be some sort of blue and green parrots, which, though I do not admire their noise, might scream and yell at their pleasure, if hung up in the hall among the armor. But your emu, it seems, stands six feet high on his stocking soles, and is little better than a kind of cassowary or ostrich. Hang them! They might eat up my collection of old arms, for what I know."

Finally, like the girl who was converted at a revival, and who gave her blue ribbons to her sister because she knew that they were taking her to hell, Scott got himself out of the scrape by passing on the emus, as a sort of feudal offering, to the Duke of Buccleuch, and leaving that nobleman to solve as best he could the problem of their maintenance.—Atlantic Monthly.

A DILEMMA.

A Troublesome Matter Confronting an English Congregation.

A serious ecclesiastical problem has arisen in a parish in Norfolk, England. A plot of land was recently added to the churchyard, and a controversy at once sprung up whether the additional plot should be consecrated before the preparatory crop of mustard seed was sown or after. Those who advocated an immediate consecration contended that so long as such a ceremonial is considered essential it might as well be performed at once. The stricter churchmen, however, contended that such an act would be sacrilege, since it would be consecrating to God's service a crop of mustard seed which would be replaced by grass a year hence. Not only that, but the grass seed would then be unconsecrated. For these reasons they believe that the foundations of religion will be undermined unless the consecration is deferred until the permanent grass seed is grown.—New York Tribune.

Miscellany.

Dr. McClintock, of the University of Michigan, has performed experiments which indicate that eggs may become infected with microbes before they are laid. A healthy hen, after repeated washings in sterilizing solutions, was placed in a sterilized cage. As soon as possible after being laid a portion of her eggs were placed in sterilized cotton and then in an incubator. All these eggs decayed and swarmed with bacteria. The remaining eggs were taken as soon as laid and cultures made with their contents. Some of the culture tubes developed; others remained sterile. After some days the hen was killed, and after proper aseptic precautions culture tubes were inoculated from various portions of the oviduct. Most of these tubes developed. It would thus seem probable that the putrefactive bacteria entered the egg in its passage down the oviduct and before the shell was formed.

THE LAW'S DELAYS.

Without subscribing in its entirety to a certain philosopher's dictum, "the law's a hass," it must be said that the law and its administration in all portions of Canada offer a good field for the work of the reformer. Many people have wondered while contemplating the fearful structure known as the law that a free people should allow any such incubus to be heaped upon them. It is very nearly a case parallel with that of Sinbad and the old man of the sea. The country is burdened enormously with the cost of the machinery provided for the settlement of disputes, machinery made unnecessarily elaborate, it is to be said, in the interests of the lawyers and not of the litigants. Ontario papers have been discussing the necessity of law reform, and in the course of the discussion several lawyers have been interviewed. Singularly enough, there is no dissent from the opinion that reform and simplification are eminently necessary, but though this unanimity of view prevails there is not much prospect of a change, for the simple reason that the "law" is too inert a body to be easily moved. One undoubted abuse is the great facility for appeals. On this point E. F. B. Johnston, Q. C., a well known member of the Toronto bar, said: "There is to my mind no branch of legal practice requiring more immediate attention than the mode in which endless appeals are carried on. A case tried before a judge and a jury, says he, in the provincial court, often composed of three judges. They may uphold the verdict. Then the case goes to the court of appeal and the judgment may still be unanimously upheld. But the persevering litigant, backed up by a fighting counsel, takes it up to the supreme court, and the four judges there reverse all the judgments, including the finding of the jury. Then we have this anomalous result—one trial judge and jury, three divisional court judges, four court of appeal judges and two supreme court judges, making in all ten judgments, overridden by four judges, and perhaps these four originally Lower Province lawyers!" Ontario and Quebec have more elaborate appeal machinery than the other provinces, but there is too much facility for appeal in all. Our own provincial system is far from free of this defect. It is safe to say that the privilege of appealing is more often an instrument for the defeat than the furtherance of justice. Another change for which many contend, and which would undoubtedly be beneficial, is the extension of the jurisdiction of the lower courts, and another is the simplification of preliminary proceedings. In the matter of criminal law the grand jury is an out-of-date institution; it is in fact the type of the useless incumbrances which have come down to us from old times. In short, there are only too many complications and excrescences in our law system, and the man who can secure its reform will be a benefactor to his kind.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

According to the latest advices, Hon. Mr. Laurier plans to be in Winnipeg on September 3, and to proceed thence almost directly to the coast. The date of his arrival here is expected to be the 10th or 11th. The party with Mr. Laurier is to consist of Hon. L. H. Davies, Wm. Mulock, M. P., Wm. Gibson, M. P. for Lincoln, P. A. Choquette, M. P., S. A. Fisher, ex-M. P., and James Sutherland, M. P. Mrs. Laurier and Miss Davies are also expected to become members of the party. The Liberal association meets to-morrow evening to consider the arrangements to be made in reference to the leader's visit, and the meeting will no doubt be well attended.

Lord Rosebery, in replying to Sir Edward Grey, secretary of the foreign office, Great Britain's commercial treaties with Belgium and Germany do not prevent her giving preferential consideration to the colonies, but they do prevent favorable differential treatment of the mother land by the colonies. This does not seem greatly to improve the situation theoretically, but as practically its solution is yet afar off it may be that by the time action is to be taken the difficulty will be out of the way. The real trouble in the arrangement of a preferential trade agreement within the empire will be in the details." There does not seem to be great encouragement in this for the "new policy."

Ottawa Journal: According to the Montreal Star, the new Curran bridge across the Lachine canal, with all its tremendous cost, is proving a failure as far as meeting the public need is concerned. "For the money spent and the money stolen in building that wretched bridge," the Star argues, "a first-class tunnel could have been built and the road traffic between Point St. Charles and the rest of the city, as well as the canal traffic, could have gone on without interruption." The Star means by this that at present the bridge, which is a swing bridge, must often be open to allow vessels through the canal. Altogether the Curran bridge seems to indicate among other things that there is a good deal of room for better engineers or management in the railways and canals department.

It is understood, says the Toronto Globe, that the government has decided to bring on the election in Cardwell about the end of September. The Conservative convention will be held in about three weeks to nominate a candidate. R. S. White announced at a meeting last week in the constituency that he would not again be a candidate. The contest in Cardwell is expected to be a test of the strength of McCarthyism, and therefore Mr. White naturally dealt with the new movement. He said that McCarthy had absolutely no footing in Quebec or the Maritime Provinces, and was generally uninfluential in eastern Ontario, but in western Ontario the McCarthy wave was felt. White seemed to think that McCarthy had only a fighting chance in a few ridings north and west of Toronto.

THE PRIZE ESSAY.

To the Editor:—You will oblige by inserting the following historic poem. Probably the Mr. Knott mentioned therein was progenitor of the author of the historical prize essay which appeared recently in a city contemporary. At all events, it was a great duel—was it not?
Yours, etc., A. B. C.

LIFE IN OLD KENTUCKY.

One Mr. Knott, with Mr. Schott,
Into some quarrel got;
The cause was what—no matter what,
Their anger waxed hot.

Then Mr. Knott called Mr. Schott
Hard names—no matter what;
And Mr. Schott replied to Knott,
In terms—no matter what.

Wrote Mr. Knott, straightway to Schott,
And Schott replied to Knott;
Wrote Mr. Knott again to Schott,
And Schott wrote back to Knott.

So Mr. Knott from Mr. Schott
The deadly challenge got;
And Knott wrote back to Schott,
That he declined it not.

Now Mr. Knott and Mr. Schott,
Their tried revolvers got;
The friends of Schott, the friends of Knott
All went into the [illegible]

Big Mr. Schott, Big Mr. Knott,
Three glorious rounds they fought;
Our Mr. Knott, he got the shot,
And Schott, he got it not.

As Mr. Knott had missed his shot,
And Schott his missed not;
So Knott was shot, but Schott was not,
And Schott the glory got.

Moral—'Tis better to be Schott than got.

THE POLAR BEAR.

Cunning Methods Required in Seeking Food.

Its principal food consists of the flesh of the seal and walrus, but it also condescends to the carcasses of whales, the larger kinds of fish and other aquatic animals, and even for want of anything better to marine vegetables. It wanders about continually in search of seal, generally against the wind, as it has a good nose. That it can smell a seal so far off must also be attributed to the pure air which uninterruptedly sweeps the surface of the ice in these high altitudes. In catching its prey it often shows remarkable cunning. Although a good swimmer and diver it cannot reach the seal in the water, but must take them on the shore. This is no easy task, for the seal is wary, hears and sees well, and always keeps close to the edge of the floe in order to be able to take to the water at the first approach of danger. The bear, however, knows well enough how to outwit it; it marks the seal at some distance, and then creeps forward under cover of projections and pieces of ice; to deaden the sound it twists it tail in such a way that the hairy side is underneath, and in this manner succeeds in coming noiselessly on its victim.

If the ice be flat and offers no shelter, the bear dives under the floes and appears suddenly in the opening near which the seal is lying. Even when basking on a lonely floe on open water it is not safe, for the bear slides noiselessly down from the ice, swims out toward the floe with only its nose visible above the surface of the water, and, when at a suitable distance, dives completely under and comes up close to the seal. It has been observed how, like the Esquimau, the bear will lie for hours watching the seal holes—holes which the seals will keep open in the ice to enable them to get [illegible] to strike with its paw the first which is incautious enough to stick its head out.

The smaller seal are an easy prey, while on the other hand the bladder-nose and walrus may cost it many a hard fight. I saw a place where a fight of this kind had taken place between a bladder-nose and a bear, and the marks in the snow showed them to have been two mighty warriors. The body of the bladder-nose was still lying there. Part of the blubber had been eaten up, but the flesh lay untouched, and the marks and gashes proved that it had not given in without a struggle.—Longman's Magazine.

FREE TRADE AND THE UNION JACK.

To the Editor:—The foreign trade of a nation is simply individual exports and imports in the aggregate and whatever restricts foreign trade necessarily restricts the trade of the individual transactions thus inflicting untold injuries upon the people generally by isolating them commercially from their fellow men abroad. No one has yet been bold enough to assert that foreign trade is an evil. On the contrary all agree in declaring it to be a universal benefit; but to state that foreign trade is a good thing while holding to the doctrine that importing is a bad thing implies a palpable contradiction, for the simple reason that restricting imports means restricting exports too, thus restricting that foreign trade which all agree in deeming a benefit. By restricting imports to the extent of say $40,000,000 we necessarily restrict exports $40,000,000 also, thus reducing foreign trade $80,000,000. It can therefore be readily seen what an enormous loss Canada is sustaining by following a policy of commercial isolation, because her trade would enormously expand under the British system. It is safe to assert that if Canada adopted the policy of the old country—that is a tariff for purely revenue purposes—imports would flow in from both Britain and the United States—though in much greater volume from England. It is, in fact, impossible to estimate the enormous increase of imports that would take place were the tariff walls demolished.

Now, since neither the United States nor the old country would send Canada goods for nothing such imports would have to be paid for, and since specie is not, and cannot be, used in settling international balances the increased amount of imports would have to be paid for by an increased amount of exports; and to the production of such increased exports Canadian capital and labor would be employed. Everybody would be benefited by engaging in industrial and commercial activity under natural conditions and operating the enormous natural industries and potential wealth of the country under the most efficient and remunerative system of free trade, thus giving an equal chance to all men.

Frequently we hear people remarking that free trade is all right, but to adopt it while our neighbors adhere to protection would be disastrous. A little examination shows, however, that the idea has no sound basis. It is equivalent to saying to the United States "we believe in free trade, we think it is a good thing but we won't avail ourselves of its benefits unless you will avail yourselves of its benefits also." This is a queer view to express yet it is practically the way many people regard the question. We might as well approach a Chinaman whom we wished to convert to the truths of Christianity by saying "Look here, John, the Christian religion is a good thing and we want you to become a Christian and unless you do so we will become Buddhists." Is it to be left to the ignorance or ill-will of the United States to decide whether Canada shall increase her foreign trade or not? It is by far the wisest plan for Canada to adopt the British system irrespective of the policy pursued by other nations. Let us trade with everybody as much as they will let us. If they won't open their ports let us open ours. If they are determined to increase to themselves the cost of such articles as they need from us, surely it is no reason why we should increase the cost to ourselves of such articles as we need from them. Let us be logical. Meet taxed exports by free imports. Imports must be paid for either directly or indirectly in commodities, therefore a similar amount of exports must go abroad in payment of the imports we receive. If the United States send us under a free trade tariff $20,000,000 worth of goods she would have to receive the payment in Canadian produce. Not necessarily directly, but most certainly by draft on London. That is, Canada would export $20,000,000 worth of produce to England for which she would receive a draft on London which would be sent to the United States, and the United States would ultimately receive the amount in goods from England and one debt would be cancelled by the other. The beauties of the system are so clear that it is really perplexing why the people are so blind as to vote for protection. Let us take another example. Last year the United States was compelled by nature and the desires of her people to import $70,000,000 worth of goods from Brazil and $25,000,000 worth from India or go without coffee, hides, etc. Now these goods had to be paid for and since the United States tariff prevents her manufacturers from getting their raw materials, etc., free, they are unable to produce as cheaply as England, and cannot, therefore, compete with England in neutral markets. Hence the United States had to send the amount in oil, bacon, wheat, etc., and England paid India and Brazil in manufactured goods the amount owing these countries by the United States. England thus got freight for her ships commission, insurance, exchange, labor for her artisans, profit for her manufacturers and merchants and increased her foreign trade. These Englishmen are shrewd fellows—the cleverest commercial men in the world and by adopting the free trade policy they have made London the banking counter of the world and built up a merchant marine and commerce since 1846 that is truly marvelous.

Yet, is it not astonishing that really level-headed business men in Canada—some of whom have been reared in the shadow of British warehouses—fail to grasp the essential truths of the system? CHABLIS-SHIRAZ.

He did not see any seals and returned to Pachena, where he remained for five weeks before returning home.

—The combined meeting of the Young People's societies in the Centennial Methodist church last night was a very pleasant and successful affair. Mr. J. H. Siddall, president of the union, acted as chairman and beside several papers read by members Rev. Joseph Hall and Rev. W. L. Clay delivered addresses on the work of the young people in the church. An excellent musical programme was rendered during the evening.

—Francis Wilks, charged with continuing to evade honest toil, had his case continued in the police court this morning. On his own behalf he stated that he had been able to live without work for four years previous to the past one. This was by getting $50 per month through a gentleman in the city. During the past six months he had worked several days and earned $20. He admitted being on the Phantom when she was lost but denied the presence of Chinamen on board. Adjudged guilty and bound over in the sum of $25 to appear on the 16th for sentence.

—A private letter received yesterday from Cariboo states that the shares in the Horsefly Hydraulic Mining company had doubled in value since last winter. A clean up made a few days ago resulted in $4880 for 100 hours' work on the Horsefly claim and $5100 for 47 hours' work on the Cariboo. These claims are owned by local capitalists, the principal shareholders being C. P. R. officials and residents of Cariboo.

MURDERER CONFESSES.

Squamish Charlie Tells How He Killed McRorie—Other Vancouver News.

Vancouver, Aug. 9.—Charlie, the Squamish Indian, has confessed to the murder of McRorie at Sea Island. He says he went to McRorie's cabin drunk and, seizing an axe, killed McRorie while asleep, in the hope of securing money, which he failed to get. Charlie talks with the greatest freedom. Sergeant Heywood warned him to tell only the truth, for what he said would be used in evidence against him. "I'll tell 'delate truth,'" Charlie replied, with a broad grin and with the careless air that he has shown ever since his arrest. "I left Vancouver with 'Tom' (Fort Rupert Indian) about 12 o'clock, can't tell time, but about 12 at night; we had bottle whiskey. Before I got to McRorie's we drank half the whiskey. I went into McRorie's cabin and asked him if I could stay there all night. He said 'No; get out; I don't want any Siwash around here.' I went out and finished other half of bottle of whisky and threw bottle away. Then I got thinking and I went into McRorie's cabin. McRorie was on bed; I think he was asleep. There was axe near bed. I picked up axe and struck McRorie. I think he turned over, then I struck him again. I killed McRorie same as I killed other man. (Crime the prisoner served five years for.) Other man came over from stables and talk to my klootchman. I did not know him, but I took club and killed him. Yes, I killed them both." Charlie takes the whole affair as a huge joke.

S. R. Robb was again up to-day on the charge of publishing false reports, this time before R. H. Alexander, T. Dunn and B. Springer. Counsel McNeill, for the defence, pleaded that justices of the peace have no jurisdiction when a police magistrate is available. The case was adjourned for a week.

There are 16 Japs living in one cabin at Moodyville mill. On going to their quarters at noon hour for lunch, one Ito discovered that someone who had a key to the building had entered in his absence and stolen $200—all his savings for years. Ito became almost crazy with grief; there is no clue to the robber.

Messrs. McKinnon and DeBeck are very indignant at the city council refusing to grant them a charter for the American telegraph system which they desired to put into operation in this district. The council refused to even entertain the propositions.

A Dalton McCarthy society has been organized here, their platform being "One Flag, the Union Jack; one school, non-sectarian; one language, the English tongue;" President, D. Donaldson; Vice-Presidents, Wm. McCraney, Rev. G. R. Maxwell and R. Sparling; Secretary, T. Mathews; and Treasurer, T. Bell, are the first officers.

STRANGER THAN A NOVEL.

The Story of an Octoroon Who is Now Living in Chicago.

She was born in the south. Her father was an Englisman, and spent his time in travelling. He brought his daughter to be educated, and placed her in an exclusive north side boarding house. She was bright, pretty and intelligent, and was well liked by all with whom she came in contact. As she progressed in her studies she increased in popularity, and socially was a great success.

Her bills were all paid by her father, who stinted her in nothing. She was well supplied with pocket money, and whenever she needed anything she asked him for it, and there was never a complaint that she was spending too much money. One day the girl received a letter from her father telling her to prepare at once for a long European tour. He asked her to hurry and enclosed a large cheque for her to use in securing the necessary outfit. She got ready and was waiting the arrival of her father, when one morning she was handed a telegram which announced that her father had died suddenly when about to take the train for this city. Overcome with grief at the sad end of her parent, the girl gave up all thoughts of her European tour, and again settled down to her old life on the north side.

Several weeks passed without anything being made known to the girl about the arrangements her father had made for her support. Finally she needed money and wrote a letter for a remittance. After some delay she received a letter offering her a big sum of money and a home for life providing she would never again attempt to communicate with a brother she had discovered during the correspondence concernig her father's death, and of whose existence she had before been in ignorance.

Suspecting something wrong, but not dreaming of the truth, the girl answered the peculiar request, declining to agree to any such proposition, and asking for the brother's reasons for dictating such terms. Then came the crushing and humiliating truth. She was told that she had negro blood in her veins, that her mother was a negress, and in fact was even at that time living on Dearborn street, Chicago. The letter which turned the life's history of this girl into a new channel carried also the information that if she needed proof she might go to a prominent Chicago pastor who knew the facts and would advise her what to do. The girl, stricken and heartbroken, could not believe at first hat she had negro blood in her veins, but she went to the pastor, who, when she insisted, told her the truth. He had no advice to give, for the girl had decided at once what she would do.

"If I am a negress," she said, "my place is with the colored race. I have no business to associate longer with my friends. I will leave them and take my place where I belong."

The girl at once wrote to her supposed brother, accepting his terms. She got the money, and then she found her mother and fitted up a home for her. She took up her life with her negro relatives, and no word of regret was ever heard from her. She bore her blow in silence and her humiliation with fortitude.

One day there came to Chicago a young Englishman who had known the girl when she was happier and her spirit had not been crushed. He went to her old north side home and was referred to a friend for an explanation of the reason why he should not see her. The young Briton was quietly told that his girl friend was a negress, and was living with her mother. He declared at once that whatever position she was in would make no dinfference in the feelings he entertained for her, and he immediately went to her home and after a few days made her a proposal of marriage, telling her he loved her and the story of her life was nothing to him. She accepted him, they were married, went to England, and lived there for several years.

Then came another blow. The husband died. The mother and a young child were left without means, and after some struggling managed to reach Chicago, where the woman entered a business life and is making a success.—Chicago Tribune.

BERLIN'S GREAT MILKMAN.

Processes Through Which the Milk Passes in a Great Dairy.

The Chautauquan for July contains an account of the largest dairy and milk supply in Berlin, owned by Herr Bolle, who is known as Berlin's great milkman. Some of the methods employed in the establishment are described as follows:

The first process to which the milk is submitted is straining, which is done by pouring it into great cisterns through a wire seive, over which is stretched a cloth, sprinkled thickly with fine gravel. That the gravel may serve for more than one straining it is put into hot ovens, by which means all possible germs taken from the milk are killed. After straining, the milk is put into bottles and subjected to 102 degrees of heat (Celsius). This process kills all harmful germs and yet does not destroy any of the healthful properties of the milk. When so bottled it will remain fresh for eight days at least, if not uncorked.

In passing from the sterilization room into a smaller one, I noticed three large tanks side by side, and was told that they were for the babies' milk, to which great attention was paid. The first was for morning's milk, the second noon's, and the third night's.

The guide then went on to say that if a child was furnished with morning's milk the first time, great care was taken that it should never afterwards be served with that from either the noon's or night's making; if it happened to be begun on noon or night's milk the same must be furnished each day throughout.

The Centrifugenraum is one of the most interesting. Here the milk is heated to about 25 degrees or 30 degrees R., and then passed into the centrifugen, as the machine is called which separates the cream from the milk. This machine is constructed on the plan of a churn, a paddle is made to revolve by steam at a rate of from 2,000 to 4,000 times a minute, by which operation the cream, being the lighter, remains in the middle, and it is possible to lead it and the "skimmed" milk off by separate pipes over a cooling apparatus.

The cream used for making butter is taken from large basins, surrounded either with ice or hot water, according to whether the butter is to be made from sweet or sour cream. Naturally the butter made from perfectly sweet cream is much more expensive than that made from sour, since the sourer the cream the more butter it will yield.

After the cream becomes what is called buttercif it is put into the great churns, where the paddles revolve from 150 to 200 times a minute. The butter now appears in tiny balls about the size of a large pin head. These are caught by a seive through which the milk is poured, and then put into the kneading machine, where the buttermilk is worked out and the salt worked in.

DANGERS OF SHOPPING.

Female Pickpockets Gather Harvests in Shop Parlors.

The fine parlors and waiting rooms which are now to be found in the big dry goods stores have been put to a peculiar use by the pickpockets and sneak thieves that make the stores their stamping ground. Recently the porter in one of the 14th street stores found a pocketbook in one of the waste baskets in the ladies' parlor. When opened at the superintendent's desk it was found to contain a check for $50 and a number of little trinkets. The superintendent hunted up the address of the person to whom the check was made payable, and wrote to her. She came down the next day and proved her ownership of the property.

"Hardly a day passes without our porters finding rifled pocketbooks in the ladies' parlors," said the superintendent of this store, "and although we have a detective on guard a large part of the time, it seems impossible to catch the thieves. The fact is that the really expert pickpocket and sneak thieves who work the dry goods stores will take nothing except cash and valuable jewelry. He will not take the risk of detection which the ordinary theif does. Checks, trinkets, and small articles of no special value the expert thief throws away.

"They rarely examine their booty in the same store in which they steal it. Take the pocket book of this woman, for instance. She was not in our store at all on the day that the pocket book was found here. The pocket book was taken from her at a swell store up town. The thief evidently hastened away as soon as the deed was committed, came down here and examined the pocket book, took out the cash which, I believe, amounted to $60 or $70, and threw the rest into the waste basket.

"Of course, all these expert thieves are women. Under their present system their operations are very successful. The ordinary thief goes around grabbing here and there, and waits until he has collared all the saleable things in sight. The chances are nine out of ten that he will be detected before he finishes. That shows the superiority of the expert crook's work. She makes no effort to steal more than one pocket book at a time. She pays no attention to goods on the counter, because they are too bulky and not easily negotiable. Unless she is caught in the act of taking a pocket book there is practically no chance of catching her. Having made her grab she goes to some other store, and in the privacy of the ladies' room gets rid of any part of her seizure which might be compromising. I don't know of a single case of this sort where the thief was caught and the property recovered. Of course, the detectives have learned to recognize some of the thieves who work in this way, but that had only enabled them to keep them out of their stores. In places where they are not known yet they operate without hindrance."

A MYSTERY OF THE SEA.

Three Captains Have Sighted What They Took to be a Stranded Bark.

The mystery of the strange bark that three ship captains have reported as stranded on a reef fifteen miles west of the Straits of Le Maire, with all her masts and rigging standing, seems to be as far from solution as when it was first reported by the captain of the Olympic.

A few days ago a vessel reached London and reported having passed within a short distance of the deserted bark, and interest was renewed in the thrice reported stranded vessel. All agreed in saying that she was an iron ship, and most likely of German construction. She was bark-rigged and had black-painted port holes. Shipping and insurance men have been trying to determine the name of the wrecked bark, but without success. No vessel of her description should be anywhere in the vicinity of the Horn, and none is overdue at any port that would pass within thousands of miles of the spot. It is not likely that she could be taken for the Crown of Italy, which ran on a reef in the Straits of Le Maire about two and a half years ago. She was a full-rigged ship and when she struck most of her masts went by the board. A few days afterwards the sea was strewn with wreckage and nothing was again seen of the wreck.

A few days ago the British ship Cedric the Saxon from Swansea passed close to the spot where the mysterious bark had been seen. Captain Rees tells a story which further complicates matters. He says the so-called bark is nothing but a rock, although its resemblance to a ship is so striking that he made an entry in his log to the effect that a bark was stranded with all the rigging intact. He says he was about 15 miles distant when he first saw it and was sure that it was a wreck. As he approached it he found that it was a huge rock sticking up out of the water. It was only about half a mile away, and even then its resemblance to a bark with painted ports was so striking that all hands had to be called for an opinion. The puzzle to sea captains who have rounded the Horn dozens of times is that the strange rock has never been seen before.

Like a ship without a rudder is a man or a woman without health and the necessary strength to perform the ordinary duties of life. When the appetite fails, when debility, and a disordered condition of the stomach, liver, kidney, and bowels assail

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE MODERN GRANDMOTHER.

Traditional Characteristics Lost in these Days.

Times have changed since the days when the traditional grandmother sat in the chimney corner knitting socks and mittens. Women who have married early in life have no more inclination, at forty years of age, for subsiding into arm chairs and giving up all interest in life, except such as centre in their grandchildren, than have the young mothers themselves.

There are artists, musicians and writers among the grandmothers of to-day, women who are doing their part of the world's work, and women who have chosen careers for themselves, while they were taking care of their own children, and who keep steadily on, with as much love in their hearts for the little toddlers who have just come on the stage as if their lives were given over entirely to pickling, darning and knitting.

Fifty years ago all the grandmothers, except in a few rare instances, were fashioned after much the same type, whose outward expression was a handkerchief folded smoothly about the neck, a cap with a wide border and a pair of spectacles.

To-day they keep their own individuality, dress as fashionably as their purse will permit, travel in their own country and abroad, entertain, are delightful companions and friends—in a word, something besides a "grandma."—The Family Doctor.

An Interesting and Enthusiastic Meeting—Many Valuable Suggestions.

The public meeting for the consideration of plans for the coming agricultural association exhibition was called to order by His Worship Mayor Teague at 8.30 last night. The council chamber of the city hall was well filled by an enthusiastic audience and the greatest interest was manifested in the proceedings throughout.

Mr. C. E. Renouf acted as secretary. The meeting was opened by the reading of the letter which caused the meeting to be called. In this the directors solicited the co-operation of all citizens of Victoria to make the exhibition a success.

The Chair—You are fully aware that the directors of the association have in the past been laboring under difficulties. These have been happily removed, and with the $25,000 voted this load will no longer be carried. To make this exhibition a success every one must put his shoulder to the wheel and work for that end. Though the times are hard, no doubt those who spent $5,000 or $6,000 to take in a circus and wild beast show can find the means to make a local enterprise successful. (Applause.)

Dr. Milne came forward amidst applause. "We propose," said he, "to run the exhibition on as economical a basis as possible. In reply to a question asked me just now I will say that the city now owns the grounds, and it was a good bargain. The money was voted in the interests of the city. To say that the directors gained anything by the transfer of the grounds is wrong entirely. All we ask as an association is for the citizens to become members by purchasing tickets and enabling us to make good the prize lists. (Applause.) The object of this meeting is to appoint a citizens' committee to assist in making the fair a grand success. We propose to have excursions from all the important outside points. We only ask to be able to place ourselves on a par with the Westminster show. The yacht club has offered to give a regatta on Monday. They will expect some help, and it should be given them. We find that we cannot arrange for a naval review, as Admiral Stephenson cannot be here at the time. Bicycle, lacrosse and other games can be arranged if we get the required help. We have added poultry to the list, but at no added expense, as only diplomas will be awarded, and some special prizes which will be donated." (Prolonged applause.)

Mr. Falconer was called. "As a member of the sports committee I can say that we have thought best to lay out a programme for each day of the week. For instance, we intended to submit the following: On Monday, a yachting day; on Tuesday, an opening day, at which we hope to have the Governor-General or Hon. Mr. Laurier; on Wednesday, American day, as a return compliment to the Americans for last year; Thursday, societies' day—a number of societies will take part, and this will no doubt make the day a success; Friday should be citizens' day, and we hope that the mayor will declare a civic holiday. The city, with appropriate decorations could be made very attractive. Saturday should be set apart as school children's day, and special rates have been arranged for them. (Cries of "Good Programme.") Transportation can no doubt be arranged from all points in the province. It would be a grand thing to let the business men of Winnipeg and Calgary know that each year a one fare rate could be secured to Victoria. Then they would have a motive to come here to make purchases. Much business might be brought to the city of Victoria in this way." ("That's what we want," and applause.)

The programme was then taken up by days. Mr. Challoner, on behalf of the yacht club, stated that it was satisfactory to them to hold the regatta on Monday. All the fleet present on the 24th of May would be here if inducements were held out to them. A general committee should be appointed to assist in getting subscriptions from the citizens. The money would all come back.

Mr. Renouf—"As to the Americans' day, I can say that after the liberal patronage which we gave Tacoma last year there should be no trouble in getting a large number over from the Sound on that day."

Mr. Burnes hoped that any money left from the association would be donated to the B. C. Benevolent Society.

Mr. Renouf pointed out that the surplus must be handed to the city according to the terms of the transfer.

Mr. Boggs moved that the general programme as outlined be adopted.

Mr. Templeman—"In line with what Dr. Milne has said and in reply to Mr. Burnes I would like to say, if there is any doubt as to what will be done with the money voted to the society, I should like to have it cleared away. The purchase of the grounds and the erection of a $47,000 building were a heavy burden. The exhibition has been a financial failure for some seasons past, and the directors have personally borne the burden so far. They now stand ready to turn the institution over to the city. The $25,000 from the city will go entirely to clear off old indebtedness. The directors cannot possibly profit by it in any way. As to any surplus, it would be a good idea to pass it on to the next year."

Nominations for a general committee were then proceeded with and the following gentlemen were named, with power to add to their number: Messrs. T. J. Burnes, Captain Warren, B. Boggs, J. H. Seeley, Dr. Milne, W. Tullock, Lewis, Pelletier, J. Braden, Drury, H. R. Salmon, S. D. Schultz, T. Geiger, C. Shedden, C. H. Gibbons, H. Elworthy, M. Young, all the aldermen, H.F.W. Behnsen, Bamford, Flumerfelt, Wrigglesworth, H. Waller, R. T. Tolmie, T. Deasy, W. Challoner, R. Irving, Captain J. Irving, F. Holden, Colonel Prior, C. Hayward, A. R. Milne, C. Kent, W. W. Northcott, R. Nelson, T. Earle, Theodore Davie, J. H. Turner, H. D. Helmcken, L. Goodacre, H. Chapman, W. Chambers, George Morphy, H. Bostock, A. H. Scaife, Dallaine, George Powell, G. Smith, J. Bryden, Brownlie, Dr. Quinlan, J. Partridge, Ben Williams, W. J. Cameron, C. F. Jones, A. Anderson, William McKeon, W. Wilson, J. Byrnes, Dr. L. Hall, G. Hartnagle, W. Lorrimer and B. John.

Mr. Renouf—So far no expenses have been incurred by the directors, and the committee can begin with a clean bill.

Mr. Seabright—"It is to the interest of every citizen to make the exhibition a success. Tickets can be had on application. Buy a membership ticket and take an active part in the affairs of the association."

On motion next Tuesday at 8 p.m., in the city hall, was selected for the first meeting of the committee, and the meeting adjourned.

ADAPTED TO COLD STORAGE.

A Tough Pittsburg Story About Rats and Cats.

In the cold-storage warehouses of Pittsburg there were no rats or mice. The temperature in the cold rooms was too low. The keepers soon found, however, that the rat is an animal of remarkable adaptability. After some of those houses had been in operation for a few months the attendants found that rats were at work in the rooms where the temperature was constantly kept below the freezing point. They were found to be clothed in wonderfully long and thick fur, even their tapering, snake-like tails being covered by a thick growth of hair. Rats whose coats have adapted themselves to the conditions under which they live have domesticated themselves in all the storage warehouses in Pittsburg.

The prevalence of rats in these places led to the introduction of cats. Now, it is well known that pussy is a lover of warmth and comfort. Cats, too, have a great adaptability to conditions. When cats were turned loose in the cold rooms they pined and died because of the excessive cold. One cat was finally introduced into the rooms of the Pennsylvania storage company which was able to withstand the low temperature. She was a cat of unusually thick fur, and she thrived and grew fat in quarters where the temperature was below 30 degrees. By careful nursing a brood of seven kittens was developed in this warehouse into sturdy, thick-furred cats that love an Icelandic clime. They have been distributed among the other cold-storage houses of Pittsburg, and have created a peculiar breed of cats, adapted to the conditions under which they must exist to find their prey.

These cats are short-tailed, chubby pussies, with hair as thick and full of under-fur as the wildcats of the Canadian woods. One of the remarkable things about them is the development of their "feelers." These long, stiff hairs that protrude from a cat's nose and eyebrows are, in the ordinary domestic feline, about three inches long. In the cats cultivated in the cold warehouses the "feelers" grow to a length of five or six inches. This is probably because the light is dim in these places, and all movements must be the result of the feeling sense.

The storage people say that if one of these furry cats is taken into the open air, particularly during this hot spell, it will die in a few hours. It cannot endure a high temperature, and an introduction to a stove would send it into a fit.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

J. O. WILSON, Contractor and Builder, Sulphur Springs, Texas, thus speaks of Ayer's Pills:

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine I ever tried; and, in my judgment, no better general remedy could be devised. I have used them in my family and recommended them to my friends and employes for more than twenty years. To my certain knowledge, many cases of the following complaints have been completely and by the use of Ayer's Pills alone: Third day chills, dumb ague, bilious fever, sick headache, rheumatism, flux, dyspepsia, constipation, and hard colds. I know that a moderate use of Ayer's Pills, continued for a few days or weeks, as the nature of the complaint required, would be found an absolute cure for the disorders I have named above."

"I have been selling medicine for eight years, and I can safely say that Ayer's Pills give better satisfaction than any other Pill I ever sold."—J. J. Perry, Spottsylvania C. H., Va.

Vancouver Real Estate Man Arrested for Embezzlement—Salmon Run.

New Westminster, Aug. 9.—H. P. McCraney, the well known real estate dealer of Vancouver, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with embezzling $500, the property of Major & Pearson of this city. The arrest caused a great deal of surprise in business circles in which he always had a high standing. He was brought to this city and lodged in the provincial jail. Unsuccessful efforts were made to have him released on bail.

The salmon run was better than ever last night, the catch showing a decided improvement all along the river. Many of the boats got over four hundred fish, and not a few reached the six hundred mark. The canneries, in order to make the most of the run while it lasted, worked all or part of the night. During the 24 hours ending this morning the pack was very considerably increased. Some of the canners fear the run will drop off suddenly, but if it lasts only another week most of them will have put up sufficient to insure them against loss in connection with the season's operations.

Monday and Tuesday next will be field days in the district court. Informations have been laid by Fisheries Guardian Grant against fifteen canners and fishermen, charging them with obstructing the main channel of the river by stretching nets from shore to shore. It is also charged that the distance between each net of 250 yards, required by law, has not been observed.

The Events of the Day Among Amateurs and Professionals

THE OAR.

GAUDAUR WINS EASILY.

Orillia, Ont., Aug. 7.—The regatta here to-day over the Lake Couchiching course was very successful, the races being witnessed by 4000 people. The weather was fine and warm. The events included the profession single scull, professional double, and a couple of local races. There was a slight southerly breeze at 4 o'clock when Referee Edward Hanlan called the single scull race, in which there were four entries, Gaudaur, Rogers, Durnan and Dark. The champion led from the start to the turn two lengths ahead of Rogers, who was three lengths in advance of Durnan. On the home stretch Gaudaur increased his lead, winning by four lengths. Rogers was second, with Durnan and Dark 20 lengths behind.

The professional double, with Gaudaur and Rice as partners against Rogers and Durnan, was a ding-dong race, the former leading by one length to the turn, but only winning by a quarter of a length.

Law Intelligence.

Before Mr. Justice Walkem in the supreme court yesterday and to-day two suits of Bank of Montreal v. Bowker were tried. The plaintiffs sued on notes and drafts in connection with the Thunder Hill Mining company. On one judgment was given for plaintiffs for $6004.36 and on the other for $377. E. V. Bodwell for plaintiff and A. P. Laxton for defendant.

Mr. Justice Walkem is this afternoon hearing the defence in Wilson v. Cowan, begun before him last week. The defendant claims that he was not consulted before any accounts were ruled off as had been provided in the agreement, and he also says that the plaintiff has been negligent and has allowed outstanding accounts to run on too long, whereas if they had been sued the money could have been made. A. L. Belyea for plaintiff and A. E. McPhillips and G. E. Powell for defendant.

The full court, composed of Justices Crease, McCreight and Walkem are to-day hearing the appeal in Vipond v. Nanaimo. The plaintiff sued for $680, balance due on a contract between himself and the corporation of the city of Nanaimo, dated 14th September, 1890. The contract was one for grading streets in Nanaimo. Besides the balance of the contract price he also sued for extra work and damages, amounting altogether to $4,450. The defendants paid $695 into court in full satisfaction, and at the trial in Nanaimo before Justice Harrison judgment was given for plaintiff for $695 with costs up to the time the money was paid into court, and as to the balance for the defendant with costs. The plaintiff now appeals. W. J. Taylor and J. H. Simpson for the plaintiff and Hon. A. M. Richards and E. M. Yarwood for the defendants.

—The Knights of Pythias of Seattle, Tacoma and the Sound cities have promised to send up a large number of visiting Knights to take part in "Societies Day" at the coming agricultural exhibition. Other efforts are being made by this order to make a great demonstration on that occasion. Some competitive uniform rank drills are being talked of, and an effort will be made to put up suitable trophies for the various companies to compete for. A division competition is also quite possible.

LAWN TENNIS PLAYERS.

Seattle Correspondents Discuss Merits of Coast Players.

An interesting discussion has been going on in Seattle relative to Pacific coast tennis players. It was started by an article in the Sunday Telegraph. In answer to that article a correspondent signing himself "A Lover of Lawn Tennis," says:

To the Editor:—In your issue of Sunday last I read the article on lawn tennis, evidently written with the object of increasing the interest in the game in Seattle.

I notice you say Mr. G. Hurd is the only first class player here. Now, in my humble opinion, and I have seen the leading players of the last five or six years, I don't believe there is a player in the first class on the Pacific coast; in fact, I doubt very much if there is one in the first division of the second class.

I consider the four best players in Seattle to be Messrs. Hurd, Meserve, Pelley and Atkinson, and I don't think there is very much difference between them. They would probably be handicapped together in the second division of the second class in a first class tournament, and that is about as high as any players on the Pacific coast would rank, so that there is no reason why Messrs. Pelley and Atkinson should not bring back prizes from Victoria. That they will do so is the sincere wish of yours truly."

The writer of the article answered as follows: "It is undoubtedly true that the tennis players of the Pacific coast are not up to the standard of the players of the east. As there is no official classification of players into first or second class, it is hard to say just where Mr. Hurd belongs or would belong were he not incapacitated by a lame knee from playing his best game. When Mr. Hurd was known all over the country as Yale's best tennis player he was a player of such ability that he was reckoned by many critics among the envied "first ten." Campbell, nor Horey, nor any of the very best players in the country could let up in their play in the least and win from him. Of course, it is impossible to make Hurd out a national champion or even inter-collegiate champion. He did not win these honors and is not entitled to them. Nor can any idea of the comparative merits of Messrs. Hurd, Meserve, Pelley and Atkinson be formed at present. The writer has never seen any of the three above mentioned playing like Hurd's best form, and if they are capable of work on the tennis court as fine as his they are to be congratulated, and they may be considered good representatives of Seattle in any tourney, whether it be in the west or east, or in British Columbia. In view of the great strength shown by the Victoria players in the past, it is hardly safe to expect, though we may hope, that Messrs. Pelley and Atkinson will bring back the first prizes."

NAPOLEON I.

How the Great Emperor Made His Toilet in the Morning.

One of the most interesting articles found among the recent numerous essays upon the private life of Napoleon is on the toilet of the emperor, which, it appears, was a most important matter and regulated down to the smallest details with mathematical precision. When awakened it was Napoleon's custom to glance over the papers while the fires were lit. He was sensitive to cold and a fire was lit in every room even in midsummer, writes a contributor to an eastern exchange. Then of distinguished people awaiting an audience he would designate those whom he wished to see, after which he would rise and take a hot bath, lasting about an hour.

The daily shave was the next duty. Ordinarily his physician, Corvisart, would be present, chating and securing favors for his friends. Napoleon's greeting was usually some badinage, such as, "Ah charlatan! How many patients have you killed this morning?" And the physician would reply in kind. Two valets were necessary for shaving, one holding the basin and another the mirror. The emperor, in a flannel robe de chambre, then covered his face with soap and began to shave, beginning at the left side at the top of the cheek. The left side done, the two valets passed to the other side. Throwing off his robe, Napoleon was next deluged with eau de cologne and subjected to a thorough scrubbing with a rough brush.

The valet then rubbed the whole body with linen rolls saturated with eau de cologne—a custom which Napoleon acquired in the east. The scrubbing was none of the lightest either, for he would call out from time to time, "Harder—rub harder." When the scrubbing was over the emperor dressed himself. A curious detail of his costume was the religious care with which he kept hung round his neck the little leather envelope shaped like a heart, which contained the poison which was to liberate him in case of irretrievable reverses of fortune. This poison was prepared after a recipe that Cabanis had given to Condorcet, and after the year 1808 the emperor never undertook a campaign without his little packet of poison.
